NEWS AROUND TOWN

By Mrs. Calvin Robinson

Note: Since are going to press early this week, all news copy received after presstime, wil be held for next week's issue.

Our esteemed correspondent from "Pamplin Vicinity" reports a true item for this column. She writes that Warren Baldwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baldwin, of Pamplin has a nanny goat, which gave birth to three little goats last week. And our correspondent adds that "mother and babies are doing just fine at this writing." We thank our reporter for this item, and also for her kind remarks about this column.

Mrs. F. P. O'Brien was in our office Monday to show a huge egg, laid by a nine-month old White Leghorn. The egg weighed 7½ oz., and was 7½ inches in circumference.

Postmaster E. LeRoy Smith is a very successful gardener. He was in our office Tuesday and left a tremendous turnip from his patch. It weighed 1⅛ pounds and was 21½ inches in circumference. And it was perfectly shaped, too.

All we need now is for some kind soul to bring us a few quail. Goodness knows, we could never shoot one!

My but we never get through congratulating the Appomattox volunteer firemen for how quickly they answer alarms. The alarm was sounded yesterday morning, from Moses Motor Co., and the fellows were on the job in what seemed like only a minute.

A traditional Thanksgiving is being observed today in Appomattox. Schools are closed and most business places and industries are closed down, some until Monday morning.

We drove down the old "Evergreen Road" over the week-end to see how Trent's turkey hatchery was lined up furnishing birds for the holiday market. Believe me, a lot of turkeys from Appomattox will be on the Thanksgiving dinner tables, all over. Business has really been rushing as truck load after truck-load has gone to the market places.

Many friends and relatives will be in Appomattox for the unveiling of the oil painting of the late Dr. David A. Christian, III, at Appomattox C. H. at 2 P. M. Friday.

It is a tribute to a family that three generations: Judge Christian, Dr. D. A. Christian, Jr., and Dr. D. A. Christian, III have been so recognized by grateful friends.

OF INTEREST TO VETERANS

The following for veterans was released this week by A. C. Gilment, Area Director, Division of War Veterans Claims, Lynchburg:

In nearly every community we find a former citizen soldier with one or both feet damaged during wartime service by wounds or injuries. To keep such men employable the Veterans Administration undertakes to supply them with shoes made to individual mold as prescribed by orthopedic surgeons. These shoes have been costing the VA from $45 to $100 per pair and sometimes the veteran has had to wait as long as 6 months for a badly needed new pair.

A new system is being put into effect which will save about $12 per pair and will cut down the waiting period to between 30 and 45 days. The new procedure centralizes the orthopedic section in New York, where individual lasts and patterns are stored, and from which orders can be promptly made up by private shoe making specialists.

Recalling the case of the boy with feet badly deformed by a land mine, who waited until his shoes were almost gone before asking for a new pair, and who then waited for months until the shoes arrived, I was gratified to learn that old shoes can now be promptly repaired. Since many of us like old hats and old shoes best, a quick relasting and refinishing job — practically a new pair of shoes, should turn out to be quite satisfactory.

A veteran in an isolated section will be pleased to learn that he will be given a self-addredded mailing carton and will be able to mail his old orthopedic shoes to New York with excellent prospects of getting the shoes back expertly repaired in two weeks.

HOMEMAKERS ITEMS

Give your children a chance to exercise their ingenuity and skill in making Christmas gifts this year.

That's the suggestion from home economists at VPI. They list several useful and easily made gifts.

For ash trays or paperweights, buy several flat coasters — the kind you use under your furniture. Select a favorite anapshot, and trace the circle of the coaster on it. Be sure to center the glass so it takes in the best part of the picture. Cut out picture and fasten to underside of coaster with transparent glue or household cement. Cut a circle from blotting paper or felt and glue to the bottom of the coaster.

Dad, mther, or an uncle or aunt will enjoy a simple pencil holder for their desk. Use a block of wood 3 by 4 inches and a wooden spool. Saw the spool diagonally in half. Glue to center of the board. Sand until smooth. Finish as desired. It may be painted white, or stained and then waxed or varnished.

A cardboard carton mey be used for an attractive waste paper box. Fold the flaps in to give strength and durability. Paint the box, inside and out, in a color which will harmonize with room furnishings. Then decorate with picture or contrasting tape. Give the box an overall coat of shellac or clear varnish for durability.

No just man ever became rich suddenly. —Menander.

In FASHION Now

This is the time of the year that all women should really dig for fashion facts. Read up on all reports that have any bearing on the garments you are thinking of buying. Evaluate them and then carefully jot down what is on hand in your closet that can be worn again this year.

Make sure you understand what materials are in the fabrics of all the garments you buy. Some combinations have wonderful wearing qualities and are easy to keep. Others, coding just as much, do not wear as well, are easily rumpled, and do not clean well.

Don't buy a new cut of dress or suit unless it is becoming. The woman who goes to any extreme to be stylish and wears all the new designs, just because they are new, is usually a comical-looking figure.

The older you are, the more careful you must be about the color and detail of your clothes.

There is a somewhat standard rule that a woman over forty should never wear black. This is just so much rubbish. It is true that the mature coloring is usually flattered more by a color, however, there are some gray-haired women who find that black is their best color.

Blouses are always an important item in the winter fashion picture. If you are planning on buying some blouses, you should be acquainted with the popular fabrics like cotton broadcloth, pima broadcloth, pure linen, line-like rayon, dacron-and-pima cotton blends.

To have proper fit, your blouses's shoulders must be wide enough to let the sleeves fall easily but not so wide the shoulder seems droop. Armholes should be comfortable, and not cause ripples under the arms.

No gaping is a sign of good fit and be sure to check your shirt tail. Bend ever—if the tail stays in it. is a good fit. Collars should be carefully matched, precision tailored to fit smoothly when worn open or buttoned up. Seems should be closely, firmly stitched. Buttonholes should be tightly stitched, neatly finished.

NEWS FOR VETERANS

Veterans Administration is surveying 305,000 veterans seriously disabled in service to bring their family status up to date.

VA said only those veterans who are 50 per cent or more disabled and who receive additional compensation because of dependents are involved in the survey.

The survey, conducted through the medium of a questionnaire, will not affect veterans whose family status was determined by VA since August 31, 1955.

Additional compensation for dependents of veterans was first authorized in 1948 and the family status of many disabled veterans has not been brought up to date since then.

VA expects this additional compensation for dependents will be increased in some cases and decreased in others as a result of the survey, scheduled to be completed by January 1, 1957.

GOLDFISH BOILED

Laguna Beach, California.. Arising at 4:30 to deliver papers, Jim Lansford lighted the gas heater to warm the house for his wife and daughters. In the dark he nidn't notice the goldfish bowl had been placed atop the heater to ward off the night chill. When he returned two hours later, the water was boiling merrily—and the goldfish were completely done.

THE NEW RECORDS

By B. C. H.

Some of the better records now spinning for modern dancers are remakes of old hit tunes which were great favorites years ago. The typical example of a modernized remake is Fats Domino's "My Blue Heaven" (Imperial) but this one isn't particularly good to dance by.

There are many others, new versions of all-time favorites, which provide both good listening and good dancing music. Among the best in this category, is Earl Bostic's "Roses of Picardy" (King), which is tops for both listening and dancing—in just about all varieties.

"Where or When" on the reverse side is slower but likewise passing the test for listening and dancing music. Ironically, the reverse side of Fats Domino's "My Blue Heaven" is good dancing music. "I'm In Love Again" is a favorite with the rock and roll dancers of the day and is good listening.

It still rates great interest in this set, along with the established dancing hits from Modern Record, are "Dancing Dan" and "I Want You" and "I Got Loaded"—all done by The Cadets.

Taking over the slower popular music leadership from the great but fading Alleghany Moon by Patti Page (Mercury) is Les Brown's Ancient History (Capitol) — at least as far as the writer is concerned. Another Capitol item, Nelson Riddle's Lisbon Antigua, also crowded in the really successful Patti Page tune.

Two others that have that certain something popular music should have are Frank Sinatra's "Jealous Lover" (Capitol) and Nat Cole's "Night Lights" (Capitol). Both are good listening and both have the stuff to be rated present-day hits. Few male vocalists can keep the pace set by Sinatra and Cole.

Jo Ann Greer does a top job on "Ancient History" as done by Brown's band, mentioned above. On the reverse side of this one Brown band lives it up and "Talk About A Party" reminds of an earlier disc done along line several years ago. It is nonetheless good and provides some laughs.

For sax work, Sarl Benesotting a pace that is tough competitors. Bostic has number of King 45's recently several of them rank with present-day dancing music able to the rock and roll set.

He also has several albums everyone has them somewhere which are worth listening to you're in a record shop. has his way of playing and isn't exactly like anyone else's for those who like it, including writer, it stands in a class itself.

She told police she always carried the money with her instead of putting it in a safe in her home, because she feared it might be stolen by burglars or destroyed by fire.

Health and Beauty

Resting in Bed

Prolonged illness or disability compels many people to spend months in bed. Time often drags, especially for those who are not fond of reading and for those whose eyes are weak or defective.

Complete rest in bed is necessary in the cure of many diseases. This is equal to the wear and tear of every day living. When you are up and about, your heart beats more rapidly and the lungs have to work harder. You cannot keep the muscles still; they are constantly in motion. You do not notice this particularly, but your body is burning fuel which must be replaced to sustain life.

Rest conserves the fuel supply. The drain on the system is greatly reduced so that the body is enabled to fight the infection more effectively. Thus, the healing process can be greatly hastened.

The new drugs, such as sulfa, penicillin, streptomycin, and other antibiotics, have not done away with the necessity for rest, though they do help to combat and overcome the infection. Remember that the body must heal itself. The new drugs only help to destroy the infection.

The body is assisted in repairing itself when germs and infection are weakened and destroyed. The process of repair goes on rapidly when the patient does not have to struggle against fatigue, changes in temperature, work, or worry.

Unless the patient resigns himself to bed rest, he will get but little benefit from it. Long immobilization is necessary only in certain illnesses. It is positively detrimental in some cases.

When you retire, learn to relax. Do not clinch your fists and draw up in a knot. You must sleep if your body is to repair itself during the night. First, get into a comfortable position when you go to bed which should be reasonably early, around 10 o'clock. Relax your muscles. Let your body go completely limp.

Approach sleep by an evening prayer. Ask forgiveness for all your wrong deeds or thoughts. If any one has trespassed against you, forgive him. Wipe the slate clean. Do not harbor any feeling of hate or unkindness towards any one.

Having gotten your mind and body in a state of peace and relaxation, turn into a position in which you usually go to sleep and repeat the little prayer that your mother taught you as a child. Inhibit thought. In a few moments, you will be sleeping soundly.
